Top Producer Rules Out Immediate Price Hike

Nixon Stock Given Boost

Vice President Plays Lead Role In Steel Drama

WASHINGTON (AP)—Monday's steel contract settlement appears to give Vice President Richard M. Nixon the sharpest boost yet toward the prime objective of his political life—the presidency.

But the happy note of an agreement brought about on terms proposed by Nixon and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell could turn sour if it is followed by an increase in steel prices and a new upward spiral in the cost of living.

Now unopposed for the Republican presidential nomination, Nixon emerged from three weeks of secret negotiations as the dominating figure in a compromise that averted what might have been an economically disastrous resumption of the steel strike.

Usual Role For Presidents

Friends think it will not be lost on the voters that President Eisenhower turned over to Nixon a role frequently filled by presidents themselves in the past.

Mitchell, who would like to be second man on a GOP ticket headed by Nixon, gave full credit to the vice president.

"Without the vice president," Mitchell said, "we would not have had a settlement. His influence, his leadership and his prestige were very significant in this settlement."

Industry and labor leaders were equally complimentary.

President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union said he wanted to commend Eisenhower, Nixon and Mitchell for a settlement he said leaves the union "sound, safe and secure."

Cooper Echoes Praise

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, seconded the commendation saying, "the same goes for me, too."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the steel agreement "should enhance the vice president's stature immediately in the eyes of the country."

But Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind.) called the praise for Nixon "a pretty obvious attempt to make political hay out of the public welfare."

"I don't think Nixon's stature can be enhanced," Hartke said. "I don't think he has any appeal to the independent voters."

Jubilation, Relief Greet Agreement

Workers, Wives Say No Better Way To Start New Year

By JOE BRADIS
PITTSBURGH (AP) — "There's no better way to start the new year. I had enough during the 116-day strike. This means a lot to us steelworkers. The feeling of security can't be beat."

This was the reaction of steelworkers in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Mo., Birmingham, Ala., Buffalo and elsewhere Monday on learning of the steel-labor settlement. Steelworkers' wives echoed similar sentiments.

Elation And Relief

A handful of the 5,000 or so employed at U.S. Steel's Geneva plant at Orem, Utah, got the news of the settlement as they left the graveyard shift.

"I'm kind of glad it's settled," said locomotive fireman Louis Demson. "We didn't have too much money saved up for another strike."

In Morrisville, Pa., Mrs. John O'Brien when told of the news that would keep her husband working, shouted: "Wonderful. Who gave in first?"

At Virginia, Minn. in the heart of the Minnesota iron ore mining area, townspeople were elated.

"I'm sure glad that's over," said Rudy Franks, a mine clerk.

Good News On Cold Morning

"I know it's the best news we could have received on this cold morning," said Henry Pappone, local Steelworkers Union official.

In Kansas City, a spokesman for 3,000 union workers at the Sheffield Steel Co. greeted the news of the settlement with qualified enthusiasm.

"Everybody will be relieved if we get a good contract," said Glen Mosley, president of Local 13 of the United Steelworkers. "I know everybody will be happy at the prospect of a couple years of peace."

Mitchell Gives Credit To Nixon

Secretary of Labor James Mitchell gestures as he tells reporters in Washington that "without the Vice President we would not have had a settlement." He was referring to Vice President Richard Nixon's role in helping work out an agreement, announced yesterday, to end the eight-month steel dispute. With Mitchell are R. Conrad Cooper (left), chief industry negotiator, and David McDonald, president of the Steelworkers union. (AP Photofax)

Industry Cost Over Billion, Blough Says

Union Wins 40-Cent Package Boost Over Period Of 2½ Years

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The worst steel labor battle in the nation's history ended Monday on government-recommended terms — at a price the industry estimated will cost "well over one billion dollars."

In making that estimate in a nationwide television (NBC) address Monday night Chairman Roger M. Blough of U.S. Steel

McDonald Tells Union Members "Victory Theirs"

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, told a carnival-like rally of more than 5,000 USW members Monday night the agreement reached with the steel industry was 40 per cent better than the companies' last offer.

"I promise you," McDonald told the cheering steelworkers, "that we emerge from these negotiations with the greatest contract, the best conditions the steelworkers have ever enjoyed."

He declared the union members can know that "victory is theirs."

"Truth Serum" Used To Locate Slaying Weapon

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The rifle Floyd E. Hargrove said he used in the sniper slaying of Charles R. Clark on Christmas Eve was fished from the Chagrin River Monday a few hours after Hargrove pleaded guilty to a first-degree murder charge.

Sheriff William B. Evans said Hargrove had told where the gun could be located after being given an injection of sodium amytal, a so-called truth serum. Hargrove had insisted he could not remember where he had disposed of the gun and had asked for the injection to help him recall, authorities said.

Hargrove, 35, a delivery truck driver who carried on an eight-month affair with Clark's beautiful wife, Lois, 30, was asked for his plea to the murder charge that could mean death in the electric chair.

In tones barely audible, Hargrove answered "Guilty." He appeared in Municipal Court without counsel and was in a near state of collapse.

Judge Albert W. Hayer bound Hargrove over to the Lake County grand jury, which convened Monday. He is held without bond.

Clark, 35, a Boy Scout leader and Sunday school superintendent, was hit in the temple by a bullet that crashed through a kitchen window at his home in nearby Mentor.

Car Hits Bus; 2 Dead, 17 Hurt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two persons were killed and 17 injured Monday when, police said, the driver of a speeding car ignored a stop light and crashed into a Greyhound bus at a downtown Washington intersection.

The driver of the car, Robert Lee Proctor, 22-year-old La Plata, Md., farmer, was killed. The second victim, William E. Watson Jr., 18, Westwood, Md., owner of the auto, died later as the result of multiple injuries.

Three other persons in the car, including a hitchhiking sailor, were injured. The driver and 13 of the 42 passengers on the bus, bound from Richmond, Va., to New York City, also were hurt.

Police said the sailor, Donald A. Henderson, 21, stationed at the Naval Air Station, Patuxent, Md., told them the car was traveling 50 to 60 m. p. h. when it went through the stop light at 12th and Constitution Ave., N. W., and hit the bus. Henderson suffered a cerebral concussion and multiple cuts.

Robert Anderson, Richmond, the driver of the bus, suffered a possible rib fracture and numerous bruises.

None of the bus passengers was believed seriously injured.

Anti-Semitism Embers Reach U.S., Australia

By SCHUYLER ALLMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

The embers of anti-Semitism, flying from West Germany across Western Europe, have reached the United States and far-off Australia.

Some Jewish leaders blamed crackpots for the desecration of synagogues and the appearance of Hitler's swastika and "Jews get out" signs on homes and buildings.

Others shared the alarm of some European governments. The rash of vandalism and threats appeared so serious in some European nations that police guards were placed over Jewish property.

"I think this is a synchronized operation, a sort of rally signal to Nazi and Fascist elements all over Europe," declared Franz Boehm, a leader in West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party.

But Abraham Redelheim, president of the Zionist Organization of America, said in Tel Aviv the slogans and swastikas "are the work of crackpots and not a symptom of rising anti-Semitism."

On instructions from Adenauer, West German envoys abroad assured other nations that the Bonn government will take swift and drastic action to smash Jew-baiting. A statement said "such evil deeds" appeared part of "a planned campaign to discredit the Federal Republic before world opinion."

The anti-Jewish outbreak began Christmas Eve in West Germany. A new synagogue in Cologne was smeared with swastikas and anti-Semitic slogans.

Since then, hardly a nation in Western Europe has escaped the tar and paint brushes of the anti-Semites. Now the campaign has vaulted across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Temple Emanuel on fashionable Fifth avenue and two other synagogues in New York City were daubed with swastikas.

A rock was thrown through a window of a synagogue in a suburb of Melbourne, Australia. Swastikas appeared on the walls of a railway station in another Melbourne suburb.

Key Legislators See Steel Pact Averting Tough Strike Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some key Congress members viewed the steel peace pact Monday as averting possible tough new laws to compel strike settlements in basic industries.

Others said Congress still ought to consider whether legislation is needed in this field, to minimize future threats to the economy from industrywide strikes.

News of the agreement between the Steelworkers Union and the nation's big and little steel companies brought expressions of relief from many of the 500,000 steel hands: It removed the specter of another walkout and more payless paydays.

Secretary of Commerce Frederick H. Mueller promptly forecast the economy would leap ahead to even greater prosperity, now that the threat of a renewed strike has been ended.

The long and increasingly bitter steel deadlock was dissolved only two days before Congress is due to reconvene.

With the prospect of a renewed steel strike later this month, some senators and representatives had been talking in terms of new legislation to strengthen the emergency machinery of the Taft-Hartley law.

But Rep. Carroll D. Kearns (R-Pa.), senior Republican on the House Labor Committee, indicated this won't happen now.

Saying the steel agreement saved collective bargaining, Kearns added: "We would have had tough legislation had the strike not been settled before Congress convenes."

Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La.) declared himself "very pleased the strike is settled without the necessity for legislation, which probably would have been distasteful to both management and labor."

However, Rep. Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich.) wasn't ready to let the matter rest.

"Despite the settlement, Congress still has a responsibility to study the problems presented by the steel strike and to consider new legislation," said Griffin who coauthored the new labor control law passed last year.

Federal Grand Jury Considers Lynching Case

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Minutes instructed on the laws involved, a federal grand jury — 22 white men and a Negro — met in secret session Monday to consider the lynching of a young Negro accused of raping a pregnant white woman.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize, a white-haired native of southern Mississippi, defined the issues involved in the Mack Charles Parker case before the jury closed itself in the new federal building.

A band of hooded raiders dragged the screaming Parker from his cell in jail at Poplarville last April. His beaten and bullet-torn body was found 10 days later in the Pearl River near Bogalusa, La.

Mize told the jurors their purpose was to determine if the 23-year-old Parker's civil rights were violated.

Mississippi laws, he said, cover murder, but the jury's responsibility was to probe the possibility that Parker was taken across state lines after his abduction from the Poplarville jail.

Mize touched on the possibility of Lindbergh law violations where a person is taken across a state line and injured or killed. He also indicated that any collusion between Parker's kidnapers and the sheriff or sheriff's deputies would be a violation of federal conspiracy laws.

"It is not a violation of the Civil Rights Act if individuals conspire to seize a person from a state jail or from the sheriff and kill him. That is not a violation of any federal statute. It is murder, punishable by the state."

The federal action came about when the Pearl River County grand jury met during the summer and failed to return any indictments.

Corp. said the steel companies had no choice but to accept reluctantly.

There appeared to be no immediate threat of a steel price boost. Blough issued a separate statement saying U.S. Steel proposes to "continue the general level of its prices for the immediate future." But he said competitive and other factors might compel a change later.

Blough said the alternative to acceptance of the government plan probably was either a renewed bitter strike, like the record 116-day walkout that hit the country last summer and autumn, or possibly an even costlier settlement imposed by compulsion.

Cuban Conspiracy Trial Of 190 Delayed

HAVANA (UPI)—A mass trial of 190 persons accused of plotting an invasion of Cuba last August was postponed Monday without official explanation, but presumably because of the absence from Havana of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The bearded leader was reported to be in the rugged Sierra Maestra section of Oriente Province directing the third day of so-called "graduation exercises" of a student militia group of some 400 persons, including 80 girls. The group is to form the "cadre" for expanded "volunteer battalions" designed to aid the army when needed.

A spokesman for the war crimes tribunal which holds its sessions at the officer's club in Cabana Fortress, across the bay from Havana, confirmed the mass trial postponement. He said a new date for the hearing would probably be set later this week.

At Least One Killed In Bomber Crash

SEATTLE (UPI) — A Navy A3D twin jet heavy attack bomber crashed in the San Juan islands on Puget Sound north of here Monday, killing at least one of the four persons aboard.

The Skywarrior hit the water about 50 yards off Lopez Island around 7 p.m. e.s.t. It did not sink.

French Author Crash Victim

SENS, France (AP) — Albert Camus, Nobel Prize-winning author, was killed Monday in a highway crash, cutting short the brilliant career of one of France's most active men of letters. He was 46.

A Nobel laureate in 1957 at the age of 43, Camus was one of the youngest ever to win the literature award. A brooding spokesman for man's moral values in an age of confusion, he was distinguished as a novelist, journalist and man of the theater.

The Nobel Prize committee honored him for "clear-sighted earnestness (which) illuminates the problems of the human conscience of our times."

Camus said then: "Perhaps this is the time to write the book of my experience while I still have the vital force to do it."

Camus was traveling to his country home in the south of France. Michel Gallimard of the French publishing family was driving and Camus sat in the front. Gallimard's wife and daughter sat in the back.

The custom sports sedan left a straight stretch of the road and slammed into a tree near Montereau. Police said the car apparently had a blowout.

Alaskan Allergy Situation Not To Be Sneezed At

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Air Force study has disclosed that, contrary to a common belief, the nasal allergy situation in Alaska is nothing to be sneezed at.

Respiratory allergies in America's fast-growing second youngest state definitely are something to be reckoned with, despite long-held beliefs that illnesses of this nature are infrequent in such a subarctic climate, the researcher who made the study reported.

It's true, said Capt. Roland W. Moskowitz, that Alaska apparently is free of ragweed—the bedevil of lots of people.

But, he said, the area has some other troublesome pollens and plants of its own and in addition some factors related to subarctic living look like unique contributors to the woes of people seasonally addicted to sneezing, nasal congestion, or asthma.

George Washington Lied To Help Win Revolution

NEW YORK (AP) — George Washington, could, and did, tell lie after lie—to help beat the British during the Revolution.

Details of his trickery are disclosed by John Bakeless in a new book, "Turncoats, Traitors and Heroes," to be published Wednesday by Lippincott.

Washington palmed off false military information, much of which he devised personally, with the help of a system of spies and informers that he masterminded.

Bakeless, a military intelligence expert himself, spent more than two decades collecting information on the spy nets, both American and British, with which the country apparently crawled during the long conflict.

It was a year or two following the start of the Revolution, says Bakeless, that Washington began to reveal "an unexpected talent for ingenious and elaborate deceit."

Runaway Bride, 15, Husband Arrested

BARTOW, Fla. (UPI) — A pretty 15-year-old bride and her 29-year-old husband, who ran away together after a judge nullified their marriage, were found Monday by sheriff's deputies.

Melvin Cook, Miami roller skating rink operator, was picked up on a warrant issued by Juvenile Court in Miami and placed in the Polk County Jail.

His attractive child bride, Janet Winthrop, daughter of a Miami airline pilot, was turned over to juvenile officers.

Sheriff Hagan Parrish said the runaway couple were found at the home of one of Cook's friends between here and Auburndale. They had been the object of a six-state search the past three days.

Traffic accidents across the country claimed a record number of lives during the three-day New Year's holiday.

Between 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday and midnight Sunday 374 persons perished in crashes involving automobiles, buses and trucks.

The ghastly toll was an all-time record for a 78-hour New Year's weekend. The previous record for a three-day New Year holiday was 364, set in 1955-56.

In addition to traffic, 63 persons died in fires and 76 lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents for an

Terms "Partially Inflationary"

"So the end result is a settlement which could hardly be regarded as noninflationary but which does curb to some considerable extent, at least, the past excesses from which some of our troubles are flowing."

Blough said the Mitchell-Nixon labor peace plan appears less inflationary than any reached in steel since World War II. But he said the industry was forced by circumstances not only to terms that were partially inflationary, but also failed to provide management with the right it had sought to trim the work force.

Among circumstances compelling the industry to accept, Blough said, were that the union probably had no choice but to accept reluctantly.

There appeared to be no immediate threat of a steel price boost. Blough issued a separate statement saying U.S. Steel proposes to "continue the general level of its prices for the immediate future." But he said competitive and other factors might compel a change later.

Blough said the alternative to acceptance of the government plan probably was either a renewed bitter strike, like the record 116-day walkout that hit the country last summer and autumn, or possibly an even costlier settlement imposed by compulsion.

The agreement calls for a 40-cent an hour boost in pay and other benefits over a 30-month period running from now to July 1, 1962. The pact dates back for technical reasons to mid-1959, but none of its economic terms are retroactive. It provides substantial insurance and other benefits immediately, plus seven-cent hourly pay boosts in late 1960 and late 1961. The steelworkers now average $3.11 hourly earnings.

"The cumulative cost of the new agreement to the steel industry," Blough said, "will amount to well over one billion dollars—and that astronomical figure is something to think about."

Loan Business Pickup Follows Steel Accord

BALTIMORE (AP)—A loan company in the heart of the community housing employees at the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant in Sparrows Point reported a speedy pickup in business Monday.

"December was the worst month I've ever had," the manager of the loan office said. He reported the steelworkers were afraid to borrow money because they might be out on strike again Jan. 26.

But within half an hour after settlement of the dispute was announced in Washington, the loan manager said he had half a dozen applications.

"It will take a long time to recoup losses," he said. "In the 1952 strike it took two to three years for the workers to make up what they lost, and this strike was worse."

"You ain't kidding, I'm happy it's over," said Henry Klein, a Bethlehem employee for 24 years. "I think Bethlehem would have signed long ago if it hadn't been for the U.S. Steel Company," commented a salaried foreman.

He felt that U.S. Steel had forced the other 10 companies to hold out in negotiations on revision of work rules.

Edwin B. Abbott, staff representative of the steelworkers union, stated:

"Obviously we are very pleased about the announcement that the dispute has been settled and although all details have not of this moment been forwarded to this office, we have every confidence that President McDonald and his colleagues have not retreated from our earlier stand on the work clause and similar industrial proposals in their eight-point program."

The president of Bethlehem Steel, A. B. Homer, stated:

"Although this settlement does not solve some of the basic problems involved in the dispute, nevertheless, under all existing circumstances, acceptance of his settlement clearly represents the best course of action."

Bethlehem employs 25,000 of the 30,000 steelworkers in the Baltimore area.

State's 1960 Traffic Toll Already Nine

BALTIMORE (AP)—Deaths on Maryland highways are running at a three-day clip for the new year.

Nine traffic fatalities were recorded only five minutes after the fourth day of 1960 started. The latest victim killed early Monday morning was William D. Curtis, 45, of Upperco in Baltimore County.

He was struck and killed by a car while crossing a road. Last year, there were 517 highway fatalities in Maryland.

Industry Cost

ably would strike again later this month; it seemed clear the government would not permit a new strike and would force a settlement perhaps less favorable than the Nixon-Mitchell plan.

Blough said the new agreement would boost employment costs by 3 1/2 to 3 3/4 per cent a year—less than half the 8 per cent average rise which he said the industry experienced in the past 20 years.

Specific details were not announced pending ratification by union and industry groups. However, it was clear that the terms exceeded the bounds of what the industry had said would be non-inflationary.

That seemed to foretell an increase in steel prices, although the industry wasn't saying for the time being. Magazine Steel said price hikes will inevitably result. The industry failed, too, to get the leeway it wanted to streamline its work force. Instead, the United Steelworkers Union merely agreed to engage in a joint study of the controversial work rules problem.

The end of the eight-month dispute wipes out the threat of a new steel strike later this month when a Taft-Hartley law injunction is due to expire.

Underground Blasts Disrupt Auto Traffic

BALTIMORE (AP)—A series of underground explosions on busy Harford road disrupted Monday morning traffic, broke windows and shut off electric power.

An official for the gas company theorized a short circuit load occurred in a cable and ignited gas in the sewers. At least two manhole covers were blown off and smoke and flames poured out.

A businessman reported the plate glass window in his store shattered. Residents rushed out of their homes and some reported hearing as many as 11 blasts.

Nobody was reported hurt. Traffic was detoured for blocks around the site of the explosions.

Oyster Shell Mining Bids Pose Dilemma

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Board of Public Works was tossed a real puzzler Monday by two firms seeking to mine old oyster shells from beneath Chesapeake Bay.

It couldn't tell which of them offered the state the best deal from the bids they submitted. Gov. Tawes said awarding of a contract would be held up until the attorney general can be consulted about "what our next step should be."

The dilemma arose as the public works board opened three bids it had received for mining the oyster shells, which the state wants to use for planting in rich growing areas as part of its oyster cultivation program.

Competing firms were asked to submit two different figures: what they would charge the state per cubic yard to deliver 200,000 yards or 3,360,000 bushels a year at planting areas, and what they would pay the state for any shells taken for private or commercial use.

Oyster Shell Corp., a Baltimore subsidiary of the Gulf Coast firm which prospected the bay for old shells last year, offered to deliver them to the state at $1 per cubic yard. It offered to pay the state a royalty of 15 cents per cubic yard for any taken for commercial uses. The firm grinds up the shells for poultry feed.

Arundel Corp., a Baltimore firm which dredges sand and gravel among its other activities, offered to deliver the needed 200,000 cubic yards for $1.45 per yard.

This charge is 45 per cent more than Oyster Shell's bid, but Arundel offered the state four times as much royalty for any shells mined for commercial use—60 cents per cubic yard.

The third firm, C. J. Langenfelder and Son, offered to sell shells to the state for $1.75 per cubic yard and pay 22 cents per cubic yard royalty. Its bid was, in effect, rejected as the highest.

The question of which would be the best financial deal for the state between Oyster Shell and Arundel Corp. hinges on how many shells the bidder would take from the bay. This information was not called for in the specifications but may yet have to be sought for a solution.

The specifications merely provided that the successful bidder would guarantee the state at least $10,000 per year in royalties. There was no maximum on what it would dredge.

Hospital Makes Bid For Peace With Doctors

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—Directors have offered to reinstate the chief of surgery whose suspension provoked a strike by doctors at the Cambridge-Maryland Hospital.

The restoration to duty of Dr. John Mace is one of six proposals for peace made by the directors Dec. 26 and disclosed Monday.

The doctors have not replied. They said they would treat only emergency patients at the hospital after Dr. Mace was suspended indefinitely Dec. 7.

The directors gave no reasons for the suspension.

The doctors also have demanded a reorganization of the board of directors and dismissal of the hospital administrator, Harold Coston.

The directors, in addition to offering reinstatement of Dr. Mace, proposed that the whole situation be reviewed by the Medical-Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland at the Hospital Council of Maryland.

Doctors first brought discontent at the hospital out into the open last summer when they sought a court injunction against what they termed interference with them by Coston. The injunction was denied and the ruling has been taken to the Court of Appeals.

The City Council of Cambridge and the Dorchester County Commission will meet Tuesday night with the planning committee of the hospital board to review the dispute.

The doctors are scheduled to meet Wednesday night with former hospital directors to tell their side.

Grady Thanks Soil Conservationists

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mayor J. Harold Grady of Baltimore thanked soil conservationists Monday for their contributions to urban living and then made another pitch for broader city taxing powers.

Grady spoke to the opening meeting of the Maryland Assn. of Soil Conservation Districts and the State Soil Conservation committee. He said two of the most important aspects of city life—an adequate, dependable water supply and silt-free navigable waters—are dependent on work done by the two groups.

Soil conservation and the prevention of erosion merit urban support, the mayor said, but at the same time county residents should be aware of city problems. Grady said the city is the primary market for farmers, as well as the economic and cultural center of the area. If the city is allowed to decay, he said, the well-being of the entire area will be at stake.

The mayor said the flight to the suburbs, blight, expensive expressways and airports, civil defense, health, welfare and education have caused increased expenses which could be met by broader taxing powers or by federal or state aid.

"Self reliance on our own resources is vastly preferable to handouts," Grady said. "I hope we can work together to solve our problems."

This is nothing new! We have been doing the same thing continuously every six months for the past 20 years and have built up reserves of 11%.

All of our money is invested in first mortgages on homes in this community which is a very stable form of investment and not subject to market fluctuations. We do not anticipate that either "tight" money or "loose" money will affect the same regular dividends in the future.

Sof-twisting is the secret

Sof-twist

1 Two pieces of enriched dough are shaped into long soft delicate rolls.

2 They're twisted gently, reducing air pockets and giving finer texture.

3 Twisted dough is placed in pans for slow rising—tightening the twist. This seals in freshness and flavor.

4 Slice at left made of twisted dough completely seals texture cells... retaining flavor and freshness.

Ordinary slice on right permits drying air to pass through unsealed texture cells.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

When You've Had A Cold . . . The Nose Knows

It's over at last — the sniffing, sneezing and the coughing — but, alas, part of the malady lingers on.

Everything else should begin looking rosy — but the nose refuses to stop! Just ask, and look at, almost any woman who says she had a cold. You'll believe her.

More important than the raw and rough appearance of the nose is the acute discomfort it gives the suffering owner. And the still present danger of infection in a very sensitive area.

As long as cold contagion is ended, there is no reason — not even a NOSE reason — why a woman cannot mingle again among company. A little antiseptic precaution and a little cosmetic preparation will make her look and feel more like her old self, less like Rudolph.

First, during the cold's at-home stage, she uses a gentle touch to keep the area around the nose clean and dry between its bouts of snouts. She protects the abused nose at all times . . . with oily lubricating cream, medicated emollient or plain petroleum jelly. She can soothe the nasal passages this way, too.

She keeps her hands extra-clean, never touching her face and nose except when necessary. Only soft clean hankies, tissues or cotton wads should touch the nose — and I mean CLEAN! This care should keep to a minimum the soreness and peeling.

Then, for that annoying aftermath while the nose is trying to heal, repeat these rules again. If the area around the nose is kept softened with a thin film of oil or jelly, a creamy foundation will mask redness and powder will cling without caking and flaking. Let the makeup here BE heavy as long as it doesn't LOOK heavy.

If the nose is very irritated, use one of the tinted medicated cover-up creams around the nose instead of your regular powder base.

City Merchant Suggests Downtown Shopping Mall

A local businessman proposed yesterday that Cumberland follow the example of a number of other U. S. cities and turn Baltimore Street from George Street to Mechanic Street into a "shopping mall" to stimulate business and keep establishments in the downtown area.

Lee Marple, 234 North Centre Street, said the "downtown shopping center" idea would help meet competition from shopping centers outside the city and keep merchants from moving out of town.

Under this plan, traffic would be removed from Baltimore Street and routed around the business area. It was recalled that Marple's idea is essentially the same as that proposed by S. Russ Minter, who drew up the plan and presented it in connection with the local bicentennial celebration.

City officials, including Street Commissioner John J. Long, told Marple that such a plan has been in the hands of the city for some time and was prepared by a national association.

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce has also been studying the plan, according to Robert C. Petersen, manager. He said that depending on traffic, the plan can be a success or failure and in cities where it has been tried, the "mall" system has had qualified success and because of this the trial period is being continued for additional study.

Locally, however, such a plan is not considered practical at the present time because of pending construction of the Cumberland Thruway. He suggested that the city get the Thruway as fast as possible, see what conditions are, and then consider what can be done. It is not a matter of cost, he said, adding that the question is what to do with traffic which would be taken off Baltimore Street.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said the city will work with the Chamber of Commerce in its study of the proposal.

Marple suggested the plan after asking council consideration of another matter.

He said he is planning to build a modern motel, joining with his present motel facility on North Centre Street, which would make a total of 36 units. But to do this he said he must have property at 233 North Centre and also an alleyway. He wanted to know if the alley could be purchased. Cost of the additional motel units would be approximately $150,000, he said.

Marple was told by City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum that the alley was committed to plans for the extension of George Street and allied work. He was told by council the city will take his request under advisement until Nuzum has a chance to make further study.

121-Year-Old W. Va. Man Scoffs At Father Time

By CARTER MC DAVID
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Old Father Time moves on in a sure and relentless way, but he's having difficulty catching up with William E. Davis of Charleston.

Davis, displaying a spryness of a much younger man, picked up his December social security check here Monday. The occasion brought about a rather significant ceremony.

At 121 years of age, Davis is the oldest social security beneficiary in the nation. He celebrated his birthday Christmas Day and when he received his check Monday, it began the 20th year of the Social Security Old Age and Survivors Insurance Program.

Later on, Davis was taken for an automobile ride around the city, including a visit to Kanawha Airport. A resident of a nursing home here, he became eligible for social security in May, 1944.

Davis says there are some people who question his age, but he doesn't pay much heed to their scoffing. "I know what my age is," he said. And to the elderly Negro that's enough.

Davis, known affectionately as "Dad", explained that he was born of slave parents Dec. 25, 1838, and was sold as a slave boy at the age of 12 to William E. Davis of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Later, he was traded to a railroad man by the name of William Mefford. "Mr. Mefford was kind of a rough man, so I switched back to the name of my first master," Davis said.

He also says he has had two wives. And from the two unions came 18 daughters. 15 of them from his first wife. However, Davis says he hasn't heard from any of the children for many years and presumes they are all dead.

After the Civil War, Davis drifted around the country somewhat like a lost sheep, working on railroads and steamboats for 15 years before finally settling in Charleston.

For the past few years, Davis has supplemented his social security payment of $33 a month by mowing lawns around Charleston. Such work enables him to get needed exercise and he plans the same work next summer.

During Christmas week of 1956, Davis suffered a broken leg when struck by an automobile. Doctors said he would never walk again, but "Dad" fooled them and was up and back to his usual way of life in a few weeks.

The oldest formerly was a pipe-smoking man, but gave it up about 20 years ago because of his advanced age.

"One day I told myself that I was getting up in years and maybe I ought to stop smoking, so I just broke my pipe and threw it in an alley,"

Employees at the nursing home where Davis stays say he's a friend of everyone, frequently coming up with a little witicism to cheer other elderly patients.

This past Christmas, Davis decided he wasn't going to just stay around the nursing home. So he walked out the door, took a bus, and traveled to nearby St. Albans to visit friends.

Time is having difficulty catching up with William Davis.

Milling Company Awarded New Trial

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — A Charles Town, W. Va., milling company was awarded a new trial Monday in a $225,000 suit against a Virginia exterminating firm.

The U. S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals overruled a lower court verdict in favor of Vogel-Ritt of Penn-Mar-Va. in a suit filed by the Peoples Supply Co.

Peoples Supply sued the exterminating firm after its buildings were destroyed by fire in 1957. It hired Vogel-Ritt to rid the premises of pests, then charged the blaze broke out while the exterminators were engaged in their work.

Maybe We Should De-Sweeten Castro

Under current legislation, Cuba is allotted one-third of U. S. domestic market quotas, but Congress is decidedly cool toward renewal of such lenient terms in the next sugar legislation. In spite of the Eisenhower administration's attempts to retain the status quo in sugar imports, reasons are accumulating to alienate the lawmakers from White House advice. Not the least of these is the anger and disappointment over the conduct of Cuba's revolutionary government.

In the one year Fidel Castro has been in power, the American people have been insulted time and again by his tirades against this country, his own citizens have been subjected to more than 500 executions after mere pretenses of trials, American-owned land in Cuba has been summarily seized with little notice (and thus far no payment) under a socialist land venture. The Cuban government has refused to meet with U. S. representatives to discuss the worsening relations between the two countries, and new Cuban laws regulating oil, mining and other industries in which American companies have large holdings now effectively prohibit profitable operations.

Despite this obvious Cuban antagonism toward Americans, one-way diplomacy continues to function in the Department of Agriculture announcement that the 1960 sugar quota again calls for a one-third share, or 3.1 million tons out of a total of 9.4 million tons, for Cuba.

The vision of American farmers being forced to hold back on their potential sugar production because Washington prefers to deal with dictators operating on the fringe of Communism is nightmarish without the added annoyance of insults and rude treatment of American nationals on Cuban soil. Even if retaliation is ruled out as a weapon of diplomacy and commerce, it is no longer safe to rely upon such a source for so large a part of a basic food staple.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Vice President

This is not the first time in American history that the Vice Presidency looms large in an election. During Franklin D. Roosevelt's three additional elections, after 1932, the question of the Vice Presidency became sharply important, particularly during the fourth election when the insiders knew that Roosevelt could not live much longer. They wanted to rid themselves of Henry Wallace and they felt that they had to "clear it with Sidney," meaning Sidney Hillman who controlled the C.I.O. Harry Truman was selected to the surprise of everybody. The Democrats wanted James F. Byrnes but could not get him.

In the Republican Convention in 1960, it is more than likely that Richard Nixon will be nominated as President. The gambit which some Rockefeller supporters are now playing will not succeed. It is a "Draft Rockefeller" movement. No one has ever been drafted for the Presidency because no one is ever that important or significant or valuable. Those who have chosen have worked hard for the position; there have been no exceptions. Rockefeller might have got the Vice Presidency for the asking but the position is apparently not to his liking. It was good enough for Theodore Roosevelt who thereafter made the best President of that surname this country ever had.

The Republicans will therefore have to find a Vice Presidential candidate who is no slouch and who can attract votes. Nixon is still a young man and by the law of averages ought to live through two terms, at the end of which he would be 53 years old. An ambitious politician who wants to be Vice President would have to recognize that his prospect of being President is slight. The Vice President must be a man from the East or the Middle West. He must have some measure of national recognition. Within these limitations, the choice can be very large.

In both parties, the religious issue looms. A number of Roman Catholics seek the Democratic nomination for President and Vice President. The number of Roman Catholics in this country has increased and the prejudice against them is not too attractive.

Among them are Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts, Governor Pat Brown of California and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City. The Republicans cannot altogether ignore this trend and it is for this reason that the Secretary of Labor, James P. Mitchell of New Jersey, is being considered by some as a suitable candidate for Vice President. Mitchell, however, is not too well known over the country and is not particularly favored by the labor bosses who remain Democrats.

The Attorney General, William P. Rogers, is often spoken of as a possible candidate for Vice President. Although not very well known to the public, Rogers has been very influential in the Eisenhower Administration. He is closer to President Eisenhower than his predecessor, Herbert Brownell, was. He is also very close to Thomas E. Dewey who is still influential in Republican affairs and might be Secretary of State, should Nixon be elected. Rogers would bring the Republicans of New York State with him.

The Middle West would probably prefer Fred A. Seaton, Secretary of the Interior, a newspaper publisher and a man of extraordinary ability. Seaton, who speaks well, has not been too active in popularizing himself. In fact, that can be said for Mitchell and Rogers as well as Seaton. It seems to be a characteristic of the Eisenhower Administration.

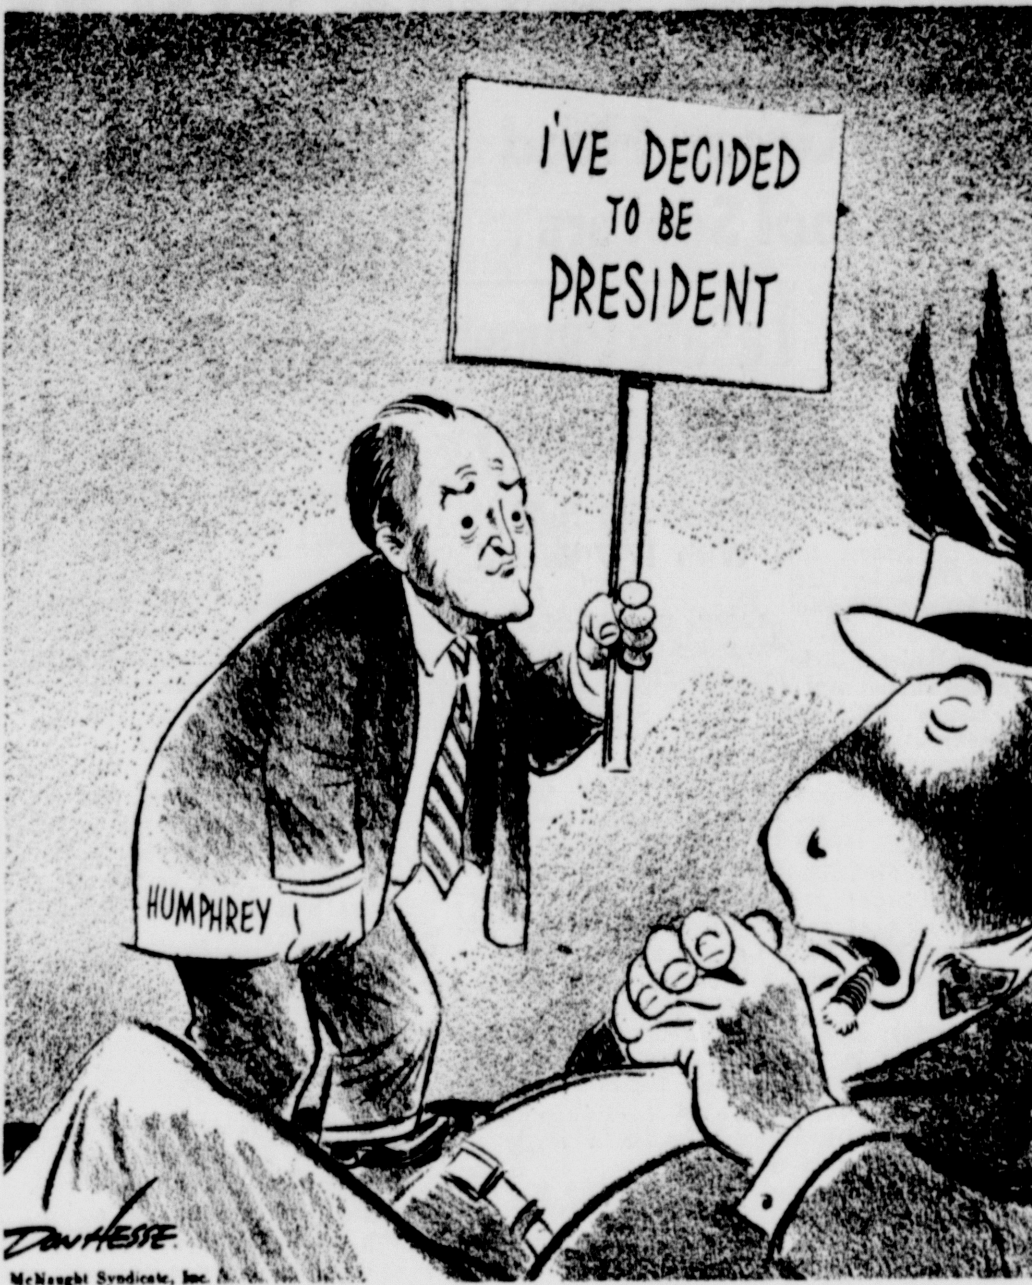

Dozens of names will appear in the Republican list between now and the Convention and they will need to be discussed, because in the Convention, as it stands now, the picketing will be over the Vice Presidency and as politicians like to play at politics, there will be activity for an office which is notoriously inactive, except as Richard Nixon made it something different.

Republicans fear that now that Rockefeller has withdrawn from the battle for the Presidential nomination, their Convention will be dull and the campaign might not get off to a spirited start. From a partisan standpoint, it would have been preferable to defeat Rockefeller on the Convention floor after a ballot or two had been taken. As it is now, it will be necessary to stimulate excitement over the Vice Presidency which is usually a dull job.

Richard Nixon is the first Vice President who has brought life and color to that position but always by consent of President Eisenhower. Will Nixon permit his Vice President an equal opportunity?

Desire For Stability Paramount This Year

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — This is the season for looking ahead to what a new year may bring. It's a time of prophecy and perhaps wishful thinking.

The biggest single desire of everybody is for a world of peace. The fulfillment of that wish doesn't depend, however, on governments alone but on peoples. Rulers, and especially dictators, can bring on war. Only peoples can stay the hand of a reckless government.

Personal diplomacy at "summit" conferences, together with visits between heads of state, have given the world some reassurance that war is not likely to come in the immediate future. But simultaneously more money is being spent on armament than ever before during so-called "peacetime." Scientists, moreover, are persistently seeking new means of inflicting destruction on human life. Intergovernmental conferences are continuing their quest for agreements to reduce the extent to which nuclear power may be used for war purposes.

But, due to the absence of mutual trust between the negotiating parties and the fear that one side or the other will cheat on inspection methods, no real progress on the so-called "disarmament" issue is visible.

Perhaps the most healthy symptom in world affairs is what is being accomplished on the economic side.

Often in world history big wars have been followed by long periods of economic instability. Only when relative stability has been achieved is there any feeling that an era of peace might be maintained for a while.

Today — nearly 15 years after the close of World War II — the economic convulsions brought about by the war in the 1940s have been superseded by a period of energetic collaboration throughout the world resulting in a kind of economic equilibrium.

Currencies are more stable than they were five or ten years ago, and restrictions on the convertibility of money from one country to another have gradually been relaxed.

Export and import markets have been enlarged for many countries, and there is a significant effort, especially in Europe, to break down tariff walls and encourage the interchange of goods. Travel throughout the world has reached record proportions. Europe, thanks to American economic aid, has made a miraculous recovery.

All this tends to increase employment everywhere and improve the standard of living of many peoples.

New sources of capital have been opened up through the World Bank and similar international agencies, so that today it may be said that the flow of capital has been given an unprecedented impetus. Entirely apart from government loans or grants abroad, private companies in the United States have extended considerably their investments in foreign countries and are looking forward to even larger production in other lands for the benefit of world markets.

But economic stability in the world is directly related to economic stability within every large or powerful country. America in the last decade has passed through a series of recessions but has made a relatively quick recovery in each case. A depression such as was witnessed in the 1930s has fortunately not developed. Possibly this is because accurate and timely methods of gathering and distributing reliable information on economic trends have been devised. Possibly it is because the lessons learned in the last big depression, which was unduly prolonged because of the mistake of a quasi-socialistic administration, are well remembered.

The dangers of state socialism have not been removed. Many who call themselves "liberal" are really in favor of more and more state control and less and less individual enterprise. Already the nation-wide unions and large businesses in the United States have come into such bitter conflict with each other in labor-management controversies that the government is being importuned to dictate settlements or to impose arbitration. Organized economic power in private groups is at its height and constitutes the biggest single danger of depression on the horizon.

The year 1960 would naturally be a good year because of the needs of an increased population and the necessity of fulfilling pent-up demand due to slow-downs in the last five years when recessions or strikes interrupted normal operations.

It will be said, however, that in a year when a Presidential campaign is in progress, there will be uncertainty in business planning. This will prove true only if a change of administration is plainly indicated or if it is feared that those who are to come into political power will wish to reverse existing policies. The chances are that, while some politicians will talk a lot about "bold and imaginative ideas," the sensible leaders, irrespective of party, will not argue for bigger and bigger treasury deficits or for more inflation or for more interference with the business enterprises of the country.

The year 1960 seems likely to bring to the front the desire of the American people for stability — and politicians in both parties would be well advised to get into the same mood.

Lobbyist For Meat Packers Talked Benson Into Ending Inspections

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — One month from this week, housewives going to the grocery store will no longer be able to buy government-graded lamb or mutton. But they will not know the reason why.

They may learn the official reason—namely, that the Secretary of Agriculture is suspending federal grading of lamb and mutton for one year. But they will not know the real reason—namely, that Benson bowed to the American Meat Institute and his close friend, its registered lobbyist, Aled Davies.

Davies is one of the most effective lobbyists in Washington and one of the strangest friends Secretary Benson has. He has probably cost the American housewife more in increased meat prices than any other one man in Washington.

His influence over Benson is strange because the Secretary of Agriculture, an apostle of the Mormon Church, is a strict teetotaler. Davies is a frequent tippler. During the course of one tittle he boasted to Chicago Daily News reporter William McGaffin that he had written press statements for Benson and helped him answer criticism from Congress.

During another tittle in the National Press Club bar he landed his fist on Dickie Brett-Smith of the London Telegraph, then engaged in a scuffle with Jack Kane of the American Petroleum Institute and Barney Capehart, New York publicity man. As a result he was suspended from the club. Despite this, the American Meat Institute promoted Davies to be Vice President.

The reason: Bepson listens to Davies, uses him as a ghost writer, opposed the humane slaughter bill at Davies' urging, and agreed to drop the government grading of lamb and mutton for one year, beginning originally on January 4. When Congressional protests became too loud Benson finally postponed the suspension to February 8 to give the House Agriculture Committee a chance to hold hearings. However he plans to go ahead with the suspension on that date.

Big vs. Small Packers

Behind the drive to suspend meat-grading is an attempt by big meat packers to get a competitive advantage over small packers. Government grading costs Secretary Benson and the taxpayers nothing. The packers pay the government $5 an hour to have inspectors stamp "prime," "choice" or "good" on meat, which automatically guaranteed quality and gave smaller packers a chance to overcome the big name brand advertising of the Big Four. The latter pours millions of dollars annually into advertising, which independent packers can't afford. Government grading helped them offset this.

The American Meat Institute and lobbyist Davies have been angling to have grading for all meat suspended, including beef and pork. This, however, was difficult. So it got one foot in the door by suspending the grading of mutton and lamb for one year. There was dissatisfaction with lamb and mutton standards, so this step was easier.

It did not take place, however, without a backstage battle in farm circles, with 35 farm, trade, and consumer organizations lining up against the American Meat Institute. Only the National Lamb-feeders and the National Woolgrowers sided with the big packers. Even the Farm Bureau, which loves Benson, choked on this one—as did all other farm groups. But the teetotaler Secretary of Agriculture lined up with his friend, the lobbyist for the big meat packers.

The Big Usurers

By Leslie Gould

As a result of the collapse of an attempted stock market raid for control of a small dairy equipment company with shares listed on a national exchange, a three-way investigation of money lenders operating in Wall Street is under way.

The money lenders are charging interest rates as high as 2 per cent a week — 104 per cent a year.

The crackdown on their operations is being made by the SEC's New York regional office, the Federal Reserve Board and the American Stock Exchange.

The Federal Reserve Board, for the first time, is requiring reports on stock market credit from lenders other than banks and brokers. The chief target of such reports are the so-called factoring firms which have been financing an increasing number of stock market operations.

The latest was in the shares of the small Cherry-Burrell Corp., with shares listed on the American Stock Exchange.

Other operations financed by the money lenders were those of Lowell Birrell, the financier now a fugitive in Brazil, and Alexander Guterman, on trial on SEC law violations in connection with the F. L. Jacobs Co., shares of which were listed on the N. Y. Stock Exchange.

Losses to brokerage firms and banks in the Cherry-Burrell operation will run close to a million dollars. Six Stock Exchange member firms alone have losses in excess of $600,000. And the investing public has lost many times this.

The stock which was run up from $13.50 to $34.87½ in 10 weeks, broke to below $14 in a matter of days. The market in the stock collapsed when a group called off a proxy fight two days after announcing their plans for one.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Purdue University's plan to beam educational programs via airborne television over an area covering six states has been O. K'd by the Federal Communications Commission. That'll make it pretty tough for Junior to play hookey from classes.

It's reported Henry Ford II, the auto tycoon, spent $100,000 on his daughter's coming-out party. That was no Model T shindig!

Turkey meat, virtually unknown in West Germany until recently, is rapidly rising in popularity in that nation. A drumstick is a drumstick—in any language.

Note — The nation's biggest meat packer, Swift, contributes over $500,000 a year to the Meat Institute. The only big packer not represented by the Institute is Armour which pulled out last year because of internal politics.

No 8 Cents For Coffee

Rep. George Grant of Alabama bought a cup of coffee in the House Cafeteria the other morning.

"That will be eight cents," said the cashier. "But you will have to owe me. I can't cash that fifty-dollar bill you have there."

"I'm very sorry," explained Grant. "It's all I have and I haven't been able to cash it anywhere this morning."

"Oh, don't worry about it, Mr. Grant," said the cashier. "Congressman Carl Albert of Oklahoma was just by here with a hundred-dollar bill."

"Well, I'm not surprised to hear of an Oklahoman totting around that much money," replied the Congressman from Alabama. "If this thing keeps up, one of our Texas colleagues may try to buy a cup of coffee with a thousand-dollar bill."

Diplomatic Pipeline

French President de Gaulle not only has been causing headaches for the Atlantic Alliance but he has also been denouncing the United Nations in private. He is bitter at the U. S. Assembly for opposing his plans to test France's atomic bomb this spring, but his criticism runs deeper than his resentment over this single issue. So many new, irresponsible countries have been admitted to the United Nations in recent years, he says, that the West is losing control. He fears the U. N. eventually will become a vehicle for Russian policy and propaganda. . . . Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme NATO commander, told President Eisenhower bluntly that the disappointing performance of our missiles not only hurt American prestige in Europe but has made it more difficult to persuade our NATO partners to accept American missiles. . . . The British fishing industry has protested privately against the government's practice of dumping radioactive waste in the sea. There is a fear it may contaminate the fish supply. A Decade Of Progress In Treating Leukemia

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Leukemia is a tragic disease, especially the acute type that occurs in children. It strikes for no apparent reason and is fatal within 4 to 11 months. More than 2,000 American boys and girls are lost annually in this way.

No one knows the cause. It is believed by some to be a viral disease, whereas others blame the more frequent exposure of pregnant women and young children to X-rays.

Leukemia is considered a form of cancer that arises in the blood forming organs such as the bone marrow and lymph glands. These structures go berserk and manufacture an overabundance of white blood cells. The word leukemia means white blood and stems from the milky appearance of the blood in severe cases.

More progress has been made in the treatment of acute leukemia during the last decade than in all preceding ages. Many chemicals — such as nitrogen mustard, busulfan, demecolcine, mannometrine, and prednisolone —reduce the white blood count, thus extending the survival time. There are instances in which life was prolonged 2½ years or longer.

Most leukemic children become weak and pale. The neck glands enlarge and many develop fever and black and blue marks due to bleeding under the skin. Pain is not present unless complications occur. Diagnosis is made by studying the blood and bone marrow under the microscope.

The survival time for adults with chronic leukemia also has risen. The average life expectancy formerly was 3 years, but now many live longer and more comfortably. Recently a report appeared of a man who lived 22 years after the diagnosis, and died of something else. He worked as a pharmacist and lost no more time from his work than does the average person. He was treated with X-rays from time to time, to tone down the production of white blood cells.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on leukemia if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request).

TOMORROW: High pressure living.

TIED MOTHER

Mrs. H. writes: My 27-year-old daughter had a baby 11 months ago and she has been tired and irritable ever since. She went to the doctor for a checkup and he found her blood pressure was 102. Could this be the reason why she feels so worn out?

REPLY

I doubt it. However, whatever of them, and probably will as time goes by.

They are particularly adept at sorting mail by hand and in operating the machines that cancel and sort mail. Other assignments for women include jobs at postal windows, dispatchers and finance and claims work.

You're not apt to see them handling heavy parcels or walking a delivery route. And that is the basis of the postmen's complaint. There are so many better jobs, and with women considered unable to meet the physical rigors of the poorer jobs, they get more of the better ones.

INTERNAL HEMORRHOIDS

D. W. writes: Is it possible for internal piles to disappear?

REPLY

Yes. They may shrink or disappear when a low roughage diet is used and constipation corrected. There is no guarantee, however, that they will not return.

ANEMIA

F. L. writes: Is it natural to develop anemia after having part of the stomach removed?

REPLY

Yes, but only when most of the stomach has been removed and years have elapsed since the operation.

TRANQUILIZERS

J. W. writes: Do the tranquilizers cause liver disease?

REPLY

Some types cause jaundice but the incidence of this complication is so low the tranquilizers are considered safe to use.

LEUKEMIA

Mrs. S. writes: What are the symptoms of leukemia in a child?

REPLY

Fever, weakness, and pallor. The glands in the neck enlarge and hemorrhages occur under the skin.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone queries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Fort Hill Loses, 52-41; LaSalle Seeks 9th Win At Bedford

Bulldogs Top Sentinels In CVAL Contest

Martinsburg Cops 2nd League Win; Locals Lose Fifth

By TED TROXELL

A disastrous first half which found Fort Hill unable to connect from the floor or at the foul stripe last night cost the Sentinels a chance to post their first win in varsity competition, as they dropped a 52-41 decision to Martinsburg's Bulldogs, on the Fort Hill court.

The Sentinels, whose only win to date came over the Alumni last week, suffered their fourth loss in Cumberland Valley Athletic League play, and fifth overall. The Bulldogs scored their second league win, the other triumph coming over Allegany, 61-60. The West Virginia team is the only undefeated club in the six-member circuit.

Erratic play on the part of both teams marked the first half, which ended with the visitors on the long end of a rather short score, 22-9. Fort Hill registered a horrendous 4-28 mark from the floor in the first two periods, and converted only one of nine foul attempts.

Stuckey Breaks Tie

A one-hander by Fort Hill's George Twigg after John Karns had tallied a layup for the Bulldogs knotted the count at 2-2 in the opening minutes of play. Jerry Stuckey broke the deadlock with a jump shot, and the invaders from West Virginia led the rest of the way.

The Bulldogs were never in serious trouble, although late in the game the Sentinels pulled to within seven points after trailing by 18 at one point in the final period. Eight straight points by Fort Hill cut the margin from 45-27 to 45-36 before Olen Haynes hit on a driving layup for Martinsburg.

A pair of field goals by Twigg and Bill Sheetz, the latter coming with 1:31 left to play, made it 47-40, but Stuckey canned a foul shot at 1:21, and seconds later hit on a layup to ice the game for Coach George Whitacre's veteran quint.

Karns and Stuckey paced the visitors' attack with 13 points apiece. The latter found the range on six of nine field goal attempts, including 4-4 in the second half. First point man for the Sentinels was Shipway with 11, followed by Twigg and Jim Rice with nine.

Fort Hill shot at a near-500 clip (11-24) after intermission, and wound up with a 288 percentage for the evening with 15-32. The Bulldogs took the same number of shots, but connected on 22 of them, for a 423 mark. The lineups:

Delmore Firing Is Defended By President Giles

Declares Umpire Lacked Ability

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—National League President Warren Giles heatedly denied Monday reports that there was anything behind the release of Umpire Vic Delmore "except my personal opinion that he did not have sufficient ability to continue as a major league umpire."

He said the fact that Delmore married the former Sonja Bockmann, who used to work in the National League offices here, had nothing to do with the umpire's dismissal. Giles pointed out that Mrs. Delmore was secretary to David J. Grote, director of the National League's Service Bureau, and that she at no time was in charge of umpire assignments.

"It just goes to show how silly some of the reasoning is," Giles said. "The only time fans love an umpire is when he gets fired."

Giles also was angered by a report that he dismissed Delmore "just before Christmas."

"As a matter of fact," Giles said, "I wrote Delmore on Nov. 12, asking him to come to see me."

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Johnny Unitas, passing star who led the Baltimore Colts to two straight National Football League championships, was named America's outstanding athlete by the Philadelphia Sports Writers Association Monday.

Unitas, who threw touchdown passes in 37 straight league games, and who set a league record with 32 touchdown passes this season, will be honored at the writers' 56th annual banquet Jan. 11.

It marked the second straight year an NFL player won the outstanding athlete award. The winner last year was Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns.

Cincinnati continues to make a runaway of The Associated Press college basketball poll with a lopsided lead over runner-up California in the weekly voting of sports writers and sportscasters.

With All America Oscar Robertson showing the way, Cincinnati cleaned up in the ECAC Holiday Festival in New York by whipping St. Joseph's of Philadelphia and Iowa in the last two rounds. The Bearcats then hustled home and knocked off Dayton 70-63 Saturday for their 10th straight victory of the season.

The three victories left Cincinnati the only unbeaten team among the top 10 in the latest ratings. California, West Virginia, Utah and Illinois fell from the perfect record class last week. Cincinnati's schedule this week calls for road games at Wichita Thursday and at Tulsa Saturday.

California was rolling along with 25 straight over a two-season span when it lost Saturday to Southern California 65-57. The Golden Bears beat Southern Cal earlier in the week en route to the Los Angeles Classic championship, in which they smothered West Virginia in the final 65-45. California played Southern Cal again Monday night.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I guess I'm one of those "frigid wives" your column referred to recently. May I tell you why?
My husband's love-making is so impersonal I feel it's not ME he wants — any woman handy might do just as well. (And we're supposed to be respectable and happily married!)

To the outside world he's charming, immaculate and beautifully mannered. The girls in his office sigh when he glances at them over his sexy horn-rimmed glasses. But at home it's another story.
He slurps his soup, stuffs bread into his mouth, reads business reports at the dinner table and douses his cigar in the water glass. After dinner he buries his nose in the paper or reads trade journals until bed time. When he turns the light out he expects me to light up like a torch.

I'm not a machine. I'm a mere human. Do you blame me for being — UNRESPONSIVE?

DEAR UNRESPONSIVE: What good does it do to fix the blame? Surely you have a point and I hear from many women who have the same problem, but

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures were mostly steady Monday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the first bell, wheat was off 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents, corn up 1/4 to 1/2 cent, soybeans up 1/4 to 1/2 cent.

Wheat prices closed mostly steady following early firming. Corn, closed firm. The advance came mainly on local buying. Reports said that exporters took a sizable amount of red wheat out of Chicago for sale to Turkey.

Corn was steady with firm undertones. A commission house with commercial connections bought heavy amounts of March. The March contract also saw some local and local spread selling. March was sold and May bought at 3 1/2 cents difference.

Oats were mostly steady. Cash grain houses bought March.

Rye was weak. Winnipeg prices were firm.

Soybeans were mixed. Prices firmed early as commission houses bought May. Northwest brokers took January and sold May and July. Trade was light. The local CCC office Thursday sold 119,000 bushels of Iowa beans.

Lincoln Day Dinner Is Planned Here

GOP Will Kick Off Campaign Thursday

Plans for the annual Lincoln Day dinner were started here last night as the Allegany County Republican Committee met in new campaign headquarters at 1 North Liberty Street.

J. Glenn Beall Jr., committee chairman, presided at the meeting attended by members of the county GOP unit.

The dinner will be held during February but the date and place will not be set, the committee said, until a speaker is chosen.

GOP leaders, the committee said, are contacting nationally known Republican leaders who might be available.

Final plans were made by the committee last night for the public meeting planned Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the National Guard Armory at Frostburg, when GOP leaders will kick off the 1960 campaign.

Del. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., (R-Frederick County), who filed yesterday for the Republican nomination in Congress from Maryland's 6th District, will be invited to attend the meeting.

Several hundred Republican leaders and workers from all sections of the county are expected to attend.

Mr. Beall, who will serve as master of ceremonies, said the meeting is open to the public.

Plans will be set in motion at the rally toward the county goal—to wrest the 6th District Congressional post from Rep. John R. Foley and to elect a Republican to carry on the program instituted by President Eisenhower.

Speakers at the campaign opening session will be Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart, Senator Charles M. See and State's Attorney James S. Getty.

The committee last night expressed regrets on the death of J. Kenneth Morgan, who has served as treasurer of the committee since his election to the committee in 1958.

The next regular meeting of the GOP committee will be held Tuesday, January 19, at 7:30 p.m. at campaign headquarters.

Hearing Set Saturday In Area Shooting

Charlie A. Jackson Faces Charges

Charlie A. Jackson, 26, of Warm Spring Road, near Flintstone, who was arrested in connection with a shooting December 26 at Flintstone in which two men were wounded, will be given a hearing Saturday morning in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of assault with the intent to kill.

Jackson was arrested by Trooper J. W. McFarland of the State Police following an incident in which Franklin J. Bennett, 25, Artes, Pa., and James C. Willson, 28, Flintstone, sustained gunshot wounds.

Bennett suffered wounds of his ear, shoulder and scalp and was a patient at Memorial Hospital for two days and Willson was treated at the institution for gunshot wounds of the face.

Trooper McFarland said Jackson, Bennett, Willson and several other men became engaged in an argument following a dance December 26 in Flintstone. The group then continued to the home of Harry Jackson, father of the accused, where police said Jackson discharged a .16 gauge shotgun.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilla questioned several witnesses in the case this past weekend.

Several other assault charges between witnesses in the case also will be tried Saturday morning in Trial Magistrates Court.

Jackson has been released on $1,500 bond until the hearing Saturday.

That night the Cresaptown neighborhood will meet at 7:30 at the Cresaptown Methodist Church with Mrs. Ruth Funk, chairman, presiding. Mrs. Buford Saville, newly-elected chairman, will be installed.

Library Seeks Name For New Drinking Bird

A name is being sought for a little bird which is constantly drinking water at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said yesterday that an election will be held beginning today and anyone may cast a ballot available at the library.

She said a name beginning with the letter "C" is being sought for the male "bottle bird." The most popular name will be determined and the bird's name will be placed on its glass.

"Write-in" votes are permissible for those children who haven't learned to write yet. Each voter has to put his or her name on the ballot in order that the ballot box can not be stuffed.

Parties arranged by the Salvation Army included one for the library.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A contest for the Republican nomination to Congress from Maryland's Sixth District was assured Monday.

And a general election contest in the First was arranged.

State Del. Charles McC Mathias Jr. of Frederick filed for the GOP nomination in the Sixth District. James A. Buchanan IV of Rockville previously had entered.

They want to replace John R. Foley, the Democrat who unseated Republican Dewitt Hyde in 1958.

Mathias was accompanied to the secretary of State's office with his filing petition by John A. Derr, former mayor of Frederick and unsuccessful GOP candidate for state comptroller two years ago.

The Sixth District is composed of Maryland's five western counties, Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery.

Salvation Army Reports Extent Of Yule Cheer

503 Food Orders Are Distributed

As a result of the highly successful Salvation Army Christmas Cheer program in Cumberland and the nearby area, some 503 Christmas food orders were distributed, 1,300 toys were given away to deserving children, more than 1,000 children were entertained at parties and 200 treats were taken to the Allegany County Home.

Captain Fred Overton, commanding officer at the Salvation Army Citadel, said his organization was gratified with the response which found the goal of $4,500 more than realized.

Cumberland Lions Club will receive the lectern for 1960 for having collected the largest amount of any local service club at the Baltimore Street kettle—$517.19. However, this amount of Saturday, December 19, was surpassed by the two-man Christmas Eve effort of Lewis J. Ort, co-chairman of the Christmas Cheer program, and Captain Overton. They collected $716.92 on December 24.

The Lions Club will be presented its award at the annual dinner meeting of the Salvation Army on Wednesday, January 20, at Central YMCA. A special award will go to the Frostburg Rotary Club for the best effort outside of Cumberland with collections of $222.59.

Following the Cumberland Lions Club were the following: Cumberland Kiwanis, $289.07; South Cumberland Business and Civic Association, $282.34; Cumberland Jaycees, $246.44; Frostburg Rotary, $222.59; Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, $183.49; Cumberland Civilians, $179.80; Cumberland Rotary, $178.50; Lonaconing Lions, $166.13; Cumberland Optimists, $150.92; Lonaconing Rotary, $130; Frostburg Lions, $123.50; Bedford Road Optimists, $117.82; Keyser Rotary, $112.33; Piedmont Rotary, $93.14; Keyser Kiwanis, $76.16; and Piedmont Lions, $68.37.

Scout District Planning Exposition Next Month

Nemacolin Trail District of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, is making plans for a scouting exposition which will be held next month in connection with National Boy Scout Week.

Walter Flythe, camping and activities chairman of Nemacolin District, said the exposition will be held February 5 and 6 at the National Guard Armory in Frostburg.

The show will be open Friday, February 5, from 6 p. m. to 10 p. m. and Saturday, February 6, from noon until 10 p. m., according to Mr. Flythe.

The exposition will consist of living demonstrations and displays depicting the various phases of cubbing, scouting and exploring. The units will select, plan and carry out their own ideas for the exhibit.

Awards will be made to the Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer Scout units for the best exhibits and all groups will receive an award for participating. Units which plan to have an exhibit at the Frostburg Armory must contact scout headquarters in the County Building for a booth reservation.

A unit may have more than one booth at the exposition but a small reservation is required for each space.

The exhibits will include rope work, flag display, handicraft, hobbies, first aid, pioneering, nature, marksmanship, cooking, forestry, conservation, fire making, Indian lore, archery and safety.

Taxpayers Will Get Assistance

Bureau of Internal Revenue officials here are urging persons who seek assistance for their 1960 income tax returns to visit the Cumberland office on Mondays and Fridays to enable bureau workers to more efficiently handle their problems.

Assistance will be given each day of the week except Saturday and Sunday, they explained, but additional help will be available on Mondays and Fridays.

Early preparation of income tax forms will enable local tax officials to check accounts more carefully and will eliminate waiting in line for assistance, they added.

In addition, one official pointed out, early mailing of the individual tax forms will permit the Bureau of Internal Revenue to make refunds promptly before the late rush to meet the April 15 deadline begins.

Individual tax forms are now being mailed by the government and the local bureau office said that over 100 "early birds" received assistance on the returns yesterday, the first day the local office was open this year.

The policy at the Cumberland office is for the individual to prepare his own return with the aid of federal counselors. However, bureau workers will make out the return if a person is handicapped in some manner from doing so himself.

In addition, two informative tax books, "Tax Guide For Small Business" and "Your Federal Income Tax" may be purchased at the cashier's office of the Cumberland bureau in the Post Office building.

County Library Drive Will Be Renewed Here

Meeting Set For Thursday

A meeting to reorganize the Allegany County Library Committee in a new effort to get the adoption of a county-wide library here has been scheduled for 8 p. m. Thursday at the Cumberland Free Public Library, according to Dr. Adam Baer of Frostburg, committee chairman.

For about three years interested citizens of Allegany County have been attempting to influence the Board of County Commissioners to create a county-wide library. Last Winter, when the present commissioners were sitting down to prepare their first county budget, this committee made an effort to get favorable action.

The commissioners then informed the committee that they were in favor of a county library but did not see where funds could be obtained during the 1959-60 fiscal year to finance it. Without a county library, the county tax rate was raised 17 cents from $2.05 to $2.22 on each $100 of assessed valuation.

Proponents of the county-wide library have argued for several years that considerable State and Federal funds would be available to the county if a county-wide library were created.

The county has a final chance to obtain $20,000 in Federal funds for a library during the 1960-61 fiscal year starting July 1 if the library is established by June 30 of this year. In addition, the county can expect between $14,500 and $15,000 a year from the State government for the county library.

When Worcester County on the Eastern Shore created a county library recently, it became the 17th Maryland county to do so. Allegany is by far the most populous of the six counties still without a county library. The others are Frederick, also in Western Maryland, and Caroline, Dorchester, Kent and Somerset on the Eastern Shore.

Representatives from all sections of the county are expected Thursday night, according to Dr. Baer. He is expecting groups from Westernport, Lonaconing, Frostburg, Flintstone, Oldtown and other areas of the county.

There now are only four libraries in Allegany County. They are in Cumberland, LaVale, Frostburg and Westernport.

Dr. Baer said that the Enoch Pratt Library of Baltimore has promised to lend Allegany County's library some 10,000 volumes for the first year of its operation.

All persons interested in the county library plan are urged to attend the Thursday night meeting.

Robert Kennedy Addresses Md. Demo Leaders

Urges Support For Brother

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Robert Kennedy made a surprise speech to Maryland Democratic leaders Monday night, asking them to help his brother, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), win their party's presidential nomination.

He made the request at a meeting of about 60 local Democratic chairmen moments after an appearance by Gov. J. Millard Tawes. The governor has expressed a hope that no nationally known candidate will enter Maryland's May 17 primary.

Robert Kennedy had said earlier he did not plan to address the meeting, the first of the reformed statewide party organization since Tawes' overwhelming victory in 1958.

State Chairman Thomas B. Finnan, introducing the senator's younger brother, presented him as "a fellow Democrat and American citizen." He said the younger Kennedy had requested permission to attend the meeting and was invited in keeping with "Maryland hospitality." The same courtesy would have been extended to any candidate or his representative, Finnan added.

Young Kennedy then briefly discussed his belief that "peace is going to be the big issue" in the 1960 election, and that the registration of new voters will be vital to Democratic success.

Turning to the need for selection of a candidate who can win, he added:

"I have a candidate who can best do that for the Democrats. I will be grateful for any assistance you can give him."

He was warmly applauded. Tawes, Maryland's first Democratic governor in eight years and firmly in control of the party organization, has expressed a preference for an uncommitted Maryland delegation to the nominating convention next summer. However he has made clear he would not run against Kennedy if the Massachusetts senator carries out his indicated plan to enter the Maryland primary.

The winner of the primary is entitled to Maryland's 24 nominating votes on at least the first ballot in the convention. Tawes and Kennedy are expected to meet privately before the senator announces whether he will enter the primary. He has indicated he will.

Besides Tawes, other party leaders at Monday night's session included State Democratic Chairman Thomas B. Finnan and Treasurer David Hume. Finnan and Hume said one of the main items of business would be a discussion of local party assessments to finance the year-around statewide headquarters recently opened at a downtown hotel. The annual tab runs around $32,500.

1,875,000 Trees Ready For Section

Seedlings To Go To Four Counties

Talk of Spring was noted yesterday when the district forester's office announced that 1,875,000 seedling trees will be available for planting in the four westernmost counties of Maryland.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said a breakdown of the trees shows that in the neighborhood of 800,000 seedlings have been earmarked for Garrett County; about 430,000 for Frederick County; 350,000 for Allegany County and 225,000 for Washington County.

The small trees, in age from one to three years, were grown at the State Forestry Nursery at Harmons in Anne Arundel County.

The seedlings, he said, will be furnished to property owners for reforestation only and they must agree not to sell them as living trees. They may be cut for timber crops as they mature.

The available species include white, red, Scotch and Virginia pine; Norway and white spruce; tulip popular; black locust, red oak and sugar maple. They will not be issued in lots less than 500, said Mr. Johnson.

The trees offer a periodic monetary return for the western section of the state. Mr. Johnson said the first thinning could be made when the trees are from six to 10 years of age at which time they can be sold as Christmas trees.

When about 25 years of age another thinning could be made and the wood sold as pulp wood. Saw logs used in manufacturing lumber could be cut when the trees are from 40 to 60 years old.

All wishing to procure the seedlings are asked to contact the district forester's office at the Court House and arrangements will be made for recommending the best species of seedlings and planting methods on the proposed sites. The seedlings are not available for ornamental purposes.

Some 300,000 of the seedlings are to be planted in state forests of Allegany and Garrett counties and the remainder on privately-owned land.
